

Wiretapping the web is one step (one GIANT step) closer to the fascist regime that is impending. Should this pass, the security of the nation will not be greater, it will be in greater risk; the threat is no longer from outside, with terrorists, but inside our own government. There must not be the ability to screen the World Wide Web, because it is a symbol of freedom and free speech. As Ben Franklin said, "Those who are willing to sacrifice essential freedom for security deserve neither."
